

Assistant Professor of Kinesiology

The Department of Kinesiology at McDaniel College is seeking a full-time, tenure track assistant professor in the area of sport and exercise behavior, or a related field.

The individual hired for this position will be responsible for teaching a range of courses; possibilities include undergraduate Introduction to Kinesiology, Sport in American Society, Psychology of Sport and Exercise, and Sport Coaching and Management, among other kinesiology courses. The person hired should also expect to contribute to our graduate program and the General Education program at the undergraduate level (First Year Seminar, Honors Program, or related programs).

Individuals with a Ph.D. by time of appointment are preferred. The individual hired will be committed to teaching excellence, remain active in their scholarly discipline, advise undergraduates, and serve on campus committees. Faculty interested in periodically teaching in China through our partnership with Anhui University are especially encouraged to apply.

Application review will begin in October. Please apply online for this position at <https://employment.mcdaniel.edu/> and submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy, research plan, and three letters of reference.

One of forty colleges and universities nationwide known for its success at changing the lives of its students, McDaniel College is a selective liberal arts college located in Central Maryland nearby Baltimore and Washington, D.C. Its primary commitment is to outstanding teaching and to fostering critical and creative thinking and humane and responsible action. McDaniel College is an AA/EEO institution and welcomes applications from diverse candidates and candidates who support diversity.